Macroeconomic Environment

GDP will contract by 1.2% in 2019 due to a weaker quarterly growth

GDP GROWTH

% YOY (BASE 2004)

GDP: QUARTERLY GROWTH

% YOY

Inflation does not fall at the expected rate due to the volatility of the FX and the greater indexation of the economy

NATIONAL CPI

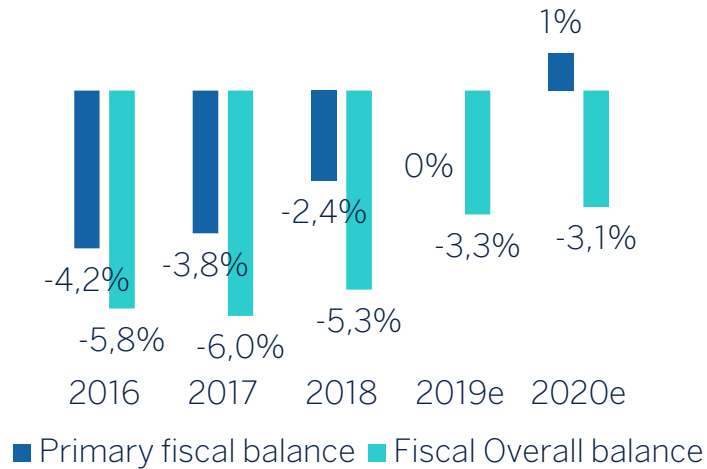

% YOY

- Inflation expectations increased as the extremely tight monetary policy seems insufficient to reduce inertia quickly in a context of continuous adjustment of utility rates and greater indexation in the economy.
- Considering monetary policy lags and lower FX volatility, inflation is expected to fail to 2.4% monthly in the 2H19.

Despite the good fiscal result until April 2019, the goal of 0 fiscal deficit will request greater effort.
